AUTO OWNERS AS TRUST BUSTERS

W. H. Clark Proposes Organization to Do Away With High Prices in Salt Lake.

The "bust the trust" spirit has taken a half-Nelson hold on the local automobilists. While nine-tenths of the town is out with an ax for the local food trust, the owners of automobiles are planning an organization to go after the local automobile dealers. "High prices and hold-ups!" is the cry of the men who have money enough to buy chug wagons, and when this class of people get to kicking there is liable to be something doing.

to kicking there is liable to be something doing.

W. H. Clark, one of the city's leading automobilists and a well known mining man, is the leader of the movement and has a plan which he thinks will be about as effective as the calling of a grand jury. He has issued a circular letter to all the auto owners in the city, fully covering his views on the matter, and it is interesting reading, not only to the auto owners affected, but to the common run of people, whose symto the common run of people, whose sympathies are with any class of people who are out to bring down the cost of living in Salt Lake. In his letter Mr.

"In view of the inadequate facilities offorded us by the garages and the exorbitant prices for supplies and repairs, it is proposed that the automobile owners of this city form a co-operative association for the purpose of owning their garage and repair shops, placing in charge of said shops a first class mechanic, who will superintend all repairs, see to washing and cleaning, as well as see to washing and cleaning, as well as being held personally responsible for all machines while in his possession, the charge to the individual owners of machines not to exceed the actual cost of supplies, repairs, washing and housing.

Kramer and Clarke, World's Best Bike Riders, Fight It Out on Local Saucer.

The one big cycling event of the season is scheduled for the Saucer track this evening. Frank Kramer meets Jackie Clarke in a sprint race, and in spite of the fact that a vast majority of the cycling fans of Salt Lake think Kramer is invincible, he is going up against the toughest race he has had in many days when the sprint between Evening. Last year it was Lawson and Kramer who put up the big cycling event of the season. Kramer won, but tonight he meets a man who has proved himself a better sprinter than Lawson, and the race ranks in importance just this much.

All year Clarker and the race this following day, Thursday, and will be played on Wedneseday the 18th, and the finals on the following day.

Play Next Saturday.

All year Clarke and Kramer have been therefore seen these two men fight it out "fair dinkum" for this reason. Tonight it is a case of each man for himself, and a battle royal should result. In nearly every match race this year it was a pretty well known fact who would win before the men started, as the ability of the riders is well known. To-night it is a guess. Kramer has the ad-vantage of experience and generalship. Never has a man beaten him in this Never has a man beaten him in this kind of a race. Lawson tried it six times in five years and failed each time. In Clarke Kramer meets a man who is a comer in the cycling game and one whom students of the game believe has as much speed as the champion.

The race will be for five miles, paced by largels, the pace dropping out two by singles, the pace dropping out two laps from home. The other even other events of the program will consist of two professional and two ama-teur events. The match race alone should teur events. The match race alone should bring out the biggest crowd of the sea-

Golf will be the feature of interest at the Country club during the remainder of the season. The fall months furnish GREAT RACE FOR TONIGHT ideal golfing weather, the course is in excellent condition, and there is more enthusiasm amongst the devotees of the "ancient and royal" game this year than ever before Two main events are scheduled for September, one being the women's han-dicap tournament and the other the men's annual handicap tournament for the president's cup.

The qualifying round for the women's handicap tournament will be played on Wednesday next. It will be nine holes medal play, the best eight net scores to qualify. Handicaps will be fixed with reference to the skill of each player, so that all will have an equal show.

ODD MARRIAGE RECORDS. One California Woman Who Has Had

Thirteen Husbands. (Tit Bits:)

Few women in any part of the civilzed world could probably be found t dispute the record of Mrs. Coto, who recently lived at Santa Barbara, Cal. She claims to have had more husbands than any woman alive. Mrs. Coto, up to the time of going t press, has had thirteen husbands, and as she married them between the ages of 17 and 20, she changed them on an average with each season and had one left over with which to start the next Her first venture was a decidedly advantageous one from the worldly point of view, for her husband was a Russian count, who gave her wealth as well as a title. In a few weeks she was disillusioned, so she divorced him to marry another titled man, only to discard him in turn. In rapid succession she married a man vaguely described as a business man, a stock breeder from Texas, a gentleman with the un-

The fact that wealth and comfort do not always conduce to happiness is has been happier with him than with any of the others. Most of her exhusbands are alive; in fact, only one of them has died.

This lady is Mrs. Waterman-Saunders - Powers - Lindley - Godfrey - Gay-Crowther-Lepage, as, with a plethora of hyphens, she might describe herself. using in turn the name of each of the husbands whose society she has enjoyed to furnish her with her present name instead of that of Mary Johnson, with which she was born.

She was only 14 when she began her marrying career, so that she commenced early, though, as she is now 39, she has been a long time, compared with Mrs. Coto, in making her record. Her "love's young dream" was shortlived, for she ran away with a boy of 17 and she had lived with him only three days when her family intervened and had the marriage annulled. Two years later she met Mr. Saunders, a commercial traveler, and after a court ship lasting only two days, she married him. Her case did not follow the proverbial one, with a leisurely repentance following a hasty wedding, for she lived happily with him for three years, when he died. She was not inconsolable, however, for not very long after she married a man employed on a railway. Unfortunately, he was killed in on a grocer. The result apparently did not satisfy either of them, for the marriage was dissolved in the divorce court and she married a hotel keeper, from whom she who furnished her with her sixth matrimonial experience. Apply to form a correct judgment of any man until a woman has been married to him for two or three weeks."

Her philosophy of life has been ummed up in the characteristic phrase, "To facilitate divorce is to encourage matrimony," and she has expressed the opinion, based on the result of what Domenico Chiapusio, administrator of every one will admit is a fairly wide he estate of Anton Chiapusio, brought experience, that "it is a mistake for every one will admit is a fairly wide

The limit which a spat must not exceed may be judged from the fact that one night, during her husband's temporary absence, she went to a party with his parents. Instead of saluting her on his return with a kiss he proceeded to knock her down. She therefore returned to her parents and applied for a divorce, which she obtained -with a second husband in little more than two years. Husband No. 2 went the way of husband No. 1 after two years, and she took No. 3, who left her in order to marry another woman when she had divorced him.

Her next experiences were with two husbands whose doings she once told a reporter "might not be just the thing for a paper to print." So she went on until she had completed her total of eight, the last of whom helped her to cultivate a little farm of a couple hundred acres. Whether he will be the last on the list it would be difficult to say, for at 30 a woman is sufficiently attractive to have many more matrimonial experiences if she does not lack an accident, so she bestowed her hand opportunity and the hearing which the divorce court never fails to offer to illtreated wives.

advantage of our services. You deposit your money either in small payments or in a lump sum, and it is not ours until after you receive a cure. We do not accept incurable cases, our prices are reasonable, our results are speedy and are lasting. No other specialist offers you what we do, for we have the only certain cure known for all curable cases.

Do you feel that you are not the man you once were? Do you feel tired in the morning and easily exhausted? Is your back lame? Is your memory failing?
Do you have difficulty in concentrating your thoughts? Do you notice a loss of ambition?
If you suffer from any or all of the above symptoms you certainly do not desire to remain so. What you want is to be made strong and vigorous mentally, as nature intended,
